Report on Language & Communication Skills Enhancement Programs

Language is the mode of communication and effective communication skills are essential cornerstones of success both in the personal and in the professional field. Recognizing the pivotal role these skills play, Rama Devi Women's University is increasingly implementing Language and Communication Enhancement Skills in its course curriculum to empower the students and hone their innate ability to articulate their ideas clearly, collaborate seamlessly, and foster strong professional relationships. University, by integrating the Communicative English (AECC-II & SEC-II) in the course curriculum, has made Language Enhancement Skills compulsory for all the Under Graduate students. Departments like Sanskrit, English, Odia, etc. are offering many Value-Added Courses to enhance the language and communication skills. These departments are also organising regular seminars, workshops, extra mural talks, etc. to assist the students. Some of the objectives that the University intends to achieve through these skills are fluency and clarity; enhance verbal and written communication skills; improve articulation for clearer expression of ideas; develop proficiency in using professional vocabulary; cross-cultural communication; foster cultural sensitivity and awareness; develop strategies for effective communication in diverse environments; enhance intercultural communication competencies and presentation skills. Photographs and evidences of these skills are attached bellow:

Language enhancement skills are offered to the U. G. students in the following manner:

SL. NO.	CLASS/ SEMESTER	NAME OF THE PAPER & CODE
1.	UG 2 nd Semester (Arts, Commerce & Science)	Communicative English, AECC -II
2.	UG 3 rd Semester to all the streams (Arts, Commerce & Science)	Communicative English, SEC - II
